

Your support saves lives

Thousands of children around the world need your help. Thanks to donations from generous individuals like you, children and adults in urgent medical need have access to care and treatment. Still thousands with hemophilia and other bleeding disorders depend on us.

The World Federation of Hemophilia (WFH) delivers life-saving treatment to those in most urgent need around the world. We train healthcare professionals, patients and families about bleeding disorders and we campaign for greater access to treatment and blood safety. Donate today to help the families of our global community raise healthy children.
